Bears
(by Amy Flanders)

Bears are interesting animals that can be found in warm and cold climates. Grizzly bears can be found in North America. Some of them are found living in the mountains. Polar bears live in very cold climates including Canada and Alaska. The panda bear lives mainly in China. Even though it may seem like there are many types of bears, there are only eight different types of bears living in the world.

Most of the bears eat meat by killing smaller animals. They may also eat plants. However, the panda bear eats mostly bamboo which is a plant. The panda does not eat meat.

Bears are thought to be smart animals. Their brains are usually large. They can figure out where to get food. Some bears in the mountains will search through trash cans.
